

What the eye perceives to be real often proves
To be the opposite of what one perceives to exist:
The illusory nature of what is engaged with daily
Laying the foundations of an experience
Which animates the internal desire to expand
Beyond the limitations defined by those whose Sole purpose is to maintain control of the mind
Through manipulation of organic thought forms:
Rendering the rational mind a gross distortion of
A pristine mirror, crafted by the Creator's hand
To illuminate mortal beings with the necessary
Wisdom, to help us navigate the darkness which Envelops thought in the same manner as a cloud
Of ash, blinding us to the reality that exists beneath
The dark cloak of deception, hindering our ability to See the world as it is - free from the mirror's distortion.